

Kyle Kusznieryk

Chief Executive Officer

Cota Aviation

Kyle Kusznieryk is the CEO and a Director of COTA Aviation, a Canadian aerospace and defence company building the advanced manufacturing capacity required to support the country's next generation of military platforms.

Under Kyle's leadership, COTA has expanded beyond traditional component manufacturing to pursue a broader industrial model spanning advanced production, systems integration, platform modernization and in-service support. The company now works across air, land and maritime programs, supporting major global defence contractors while developing sovereign Canadian solutions for the Canadian Armed Forces.

Kyle has led COTA's entry into increasingly complex defence programs, including the modernization of Canada's Victoria-class submarines, the expansion of advanced aerospace production capabilities, and the development of domestic manufacturing solutions for future Canadian defence programs.