

Guillaume Chevasson

Guillaume Chevasson was appointed Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of Airbus Canada Limited Partnership and Head of the A220 Programme, effective October 1, 2025.

Guillaume has served as Head of Finance & Controlling, Programmes and Services, for the Commercial Aircraft business since 2020. In his new role, he will lead the A220 Programme as it moves into its final production ramp-up phase and toward achieving profitability.

A highly accomplished finance executive, Guillaume, 43, joined Airbus in 2005 and has held several executive roles over the last 15 years. He has significantly influenced the financial success of the Commercial Aircraft business and has overseen international teams. Guillaume also served as Vice Chairman of EFW and a board member for ATR and Aerostack.

His expertise extends beyond finance, with a background in international business development that includes leading sales and marketing efforts in Asia-Pacific, implementing country strategies in Brazil, and managing merger and acquisition activities. He has also contributed to various international defence activities.

Guillaume, a native of Toulouse, France, holds a Post-Graduate and Master's degree in Financial Audit from I.C.N. Business School. He has moved to Montreal with his family to take on his new role as CEO of Airbus Canada Limited Partnership and Head of the A220 Programme.
